IN CONCLUSION / THIS IS WHY I THINK THAT
[REPEAT YOUR OPINION]

I BELIEVE THAT KEEPING THE SWIMMING POOL IS
THE BEST OPTION, FOR IT
SAVES MONEY, IT IS MORE INCLUSIVE, IT IS REFRESHING DURING SUMMER.

Firstly, building a gym can be quite expensive. Gym equipments, such as bench presses, squat racks, and dumbbells, can amount to upwards of $15.000-$25.000CAD, while I am sure we could quote a pool renovation for much less. My cousin built his own gym at his basement, and he spent $20k. I do not think our tenants would be very excited about this.

Secondly, a pool is fun for all ages, while the gym would target only a very specific demographic. Our building has many elderly people and families with kids, so it would make no sense to demolish a beautiful swimming pool in exchange for a gym.

Finally, Toronto is becoming extremely hot due to global warming, so a pool would be a good way to refresh during summer time, and I am sure most tenants would agree. Last summer, my family and I were having to find friends with pools so that we could escape the extreme heat.

This is why I think a pool renovation would be the best option.
